

or Queen" represented only one day's activity.

The Evening Standard, which is conducting a strong anti-suffragette campaign, asserts that it has possession of plans of the Women's Social and Political Union for burning Hampton Court Palace, the Stratford-on-Avon Church, King's College Chapel at Cambridge, the Bodleian Library at Oxford and the Lincoln Cathedral.

SUFFRAGETTE TRIES TO SEE AMBASSADOR PAGE.

A woman giving the name of Mrs. B. W. Wadsworth, who says she is an American, went to the Embassy yesterday and demanded to see Ambassador Page. She said she was in the procession of suffragettes which was broken up while attempting to march to Buckingham Palace May 31, to present a petition to the King, but she refused to tell anybody except the Ambassador what she wanted to complain about. Second Secretary Edward Bell and Third Secretary Hallett Johnson finally managed to get her to go away, but she vowed she would keep coming back and would see the Ambassador if it took all summer.

King George and Queen Mary had hardly taken their seats at the Horse Show at Olympia yesterday when a young woman, who in the stable spirit and in a shrill voice screamed denunciations of the forcible feeding of suffragette prisoners. When the police seized her she fought wildly and was only put out after a severe struggle.

Afterward two women at opposite ends of the arena harangued the royal box and appealed to the King to stop forcible feeding. Amid angry shouts from the spectators the suffragettes were ejected.

For the state ball at Buckingham Palace extraordinary precautions will be adopted to exclude suffragettes. Mrs. May Fausten, a former Philadelphia woman, who was arrested with others after the disturbance at the Brompton Oratory Sunday, was yesterday in Westminster Police Court. The Magistrate informed her she must give a bond of $50 for good behavior for six months or go to Holloway Jail for fourteen days. Mrs. Fausten promptly replied that she would go to jail and begin a hunger strike.

"We have no King, but thank God we have Mrs. Pankhurst," she shouted. Mrs. Pankhurst, one of Sunday's brawlers in Westminster Roman Catholic Cathedral, when she was led away to a cell after refusing to give a bond for good behavior, was brought up in police court yesterday.

HEADS OF CHURCH INDORE SLOGAN: "LET THEM DIE!"

The new motto of those opposed to militant suffragism in England—"Let them die!"—is concurred in by many of the church heads. The London Standard quotes these:

Father Bernard Vaughan of Westminster Cathedral—"There would be nothing ethically wrong in letting them die. Let them start at once and make up for lost time."

The Rev. Arthur Waldron, vicar of St. Matthew's, Brixton—"If the women refuse food they should be allowed to die."

The Rev. Richard Free, vicar of St. Clement's, Fulham—"I think the suggestion very good. I have advocated it for many months."

SUFFRAGE ROW IN NUTLEY.

Don Refuse to Serve on Health Board With Woman.

(Special to The Evening World.)

NEWARK, June 8.—After Miss Annie L. Van Winkle was chosen a member of the Board of Health of Nutley, N. J., last night several of the men commissioners threatened to resign. Mayor Abraham Blum was opposed to a woman invading the field of sanitation and voted against the appointment.

As matters now stand in Nutley, it is doubtful if the new board will have a working majority. The other four members appointed are Edward Whelan, William H. Devenney, John Egleston and Dr. Roy Langdon. Five minutes after the board met, Whelan, Devenney and Egleston had resigned rather than serve on the board with a woman. Devenney and Egleston had made similar declarations.

Some day Nutley will have a Board of Health composed of all women commissioners, but among the old timers the opinion prevails that the folks will just naturally have to resign.

PROSECUTOR WILL OPEN NEW INQUIRY INTO GIRL'S DEATH

Authorities Not Satisfied With Verdict That Miss Winter Accidentally Drowned.

BROTHER IS INDIGNANT.

Girl Last Seen Alive With Young Man She Visited on House Boat.

BALTIMORE, June 8.—State's Attorney Green of Anne Arundel County this afternoon ordered another inquiry into the death of Miss Ella G. Winter, found dead in Curtis Bay yesterday morning. It is likely the girl's funeral set for to-morrow will be postponed.

The mystery of the girl's death is deeper to-day than yesterday although the Coroner's Jury brought in a verdict of accidental drowning.

George Winter, the dead girl's brother, hotly criticizes the autopsy physician because he did not examine the dead girl's lungs. Winter is bitter against Dr. Meredith Reese Jr., a manufacturer's agent, with whom Miss Winter was last seen alive. Reese told his story of the girl's end to the Coroner's Jury, but revealed nothing save that he parted with her at a summer resort some time before her body was found.

Winter is determined to continue the inquiry into his sister's fate. She had for years been receiving Reese's attentions and was received by his family.

The body was found near where the houseboat and launch of Reese had been moored until Monday. Reese and Miss Winter were reported to be engaged to be married. Reese said at the inquest, however, that they were not engaged, but that he had never known a woman to be so devoted to a man as Miss Winter was to him. He declared that they had never quarreled.

Miss Winter met Reese by appointment at a landing near Flood's Park, on Curtis Bay, Thursday night. When her body was found by an employee of Flood's Park she had on the raincoat and chambray gloves which she wore when she left her home. The hat was missing. The face and body gave evidence of having been in the water for some time. Seven diamond rings, believed to be gifts from Mr. Reese, were on the fingers, and at her neck was a handsome diamond brooch.

"My mother and father and Miss Larabee, a friend of the family, came down last Wednesday to spend two weeks aboard my houseboat," said young Reese. "Miss Winter had been invited by my mother to stay over yesterday with us. She was to have come Saturday night."

"On Thursday night we decided to take a little trip in my motor boat. When she left me I was busy with the engine, but my face was toward her. She waved me goodbye. I soon lost sight of her."

"There was no stretch of woods for her to go through. The way was straight and brilliantly lighted and there were hundreds of people around. I do not believe Miss Winter committed suicide. She was in good humor, and there had been no disagreement between us."

"The matter has, of course, proved more than disagreeable not only to me but to my family."

Aid for Empress of Ireland Survivors.

OTTAWA, June 8.—The Canadian Government announced to-day that it would appropriate $50,000 for the relief of survivors and the families of victims of the Empress of Ireland disaster, and $10,000 to defray expenses of the inquiry into the sinking of the steamer, which resulted in the loss of more than 350 lives.

Maid of Honor Who Has Gained Consent of Kaiser to Wed His Son

COUNTRESS INA DE BASERWITZ

BERLIN, June 8.—Countess Ina de Baserwitz, maid of honor to the Empress of Germany, has just been made happy through the withdrawal of the Kaiser's objections to her marriage to Prince Oscar, the fifth son of the Emperor of Germany. Though the Countess is not of royal blood, she is a member of one of the oldest families in the German Empire. The Kaiser at first strongly opposed the alliance and threatened to banish Prince Oscar.

UNITED STATES LEADS IN TIME UNIFICATION

Senate Ratifies Convention Which Was Signed by Twenty-four Other Nations.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—The action of the Senate in ratifying the convention providing for the organization of an International Time Association created considerable interest in scientific circles here to-day. Relief was expressed that this step would give impetus to the movement to secure unification of time throughout the world. Twenty-four other countries have subscribed to the convention.

The object of the association is the unification of time by the use of wireless telegraphy or other signals. The countries which subscribed to the convention are Argentina, Austria, Belgium, Brazil, Chile, Cuba, Denmark, Ecuador, Spain, France, Great Britain, Greece, Guatemala, Italy, Liberia, Monaco, Nicaragua, Netherlands, Portugal, Russia, Serbia, Sweden, Switzerland and Uruguay.

MAE SULLIVAN 'SO NERVOUS.'

That's the Reason She Tore Up Subpoena, the Tolls Court.

Mae E. Sullivan, whose suit for $225,000 for breach of promise against Arthur L. Hoe resulted in a disagreement last week, appeared in Justice La Fetra's part of the City Court to-day to answer to contempt proceedings.

The young woman was arrested last night just after she appeared on the hill at Hammerstein's Roof Garden, where she failed utterly to make a hit as "the heroine of the love suit against Hoe."

Miss Sullivan told Justice La Fetra she did not intend to tear up the subpoena, but she was so excited she didn't know what she was doing. She added that she did not think that the judgment against her represented necessities of life and Justice La Fetra said that he would give her attorneys a chance to meet this question.

The suit out of which the contempt proceedings grew was instituted by Stern & Greenberg, house furnishers at One Hundred and Twenty-ninth street and Columbus avenue, who claim that a bill of $250 was run up by Miss Sullivan while she was living at No. 420 Riverside Drive.

WANAMAKER PAYS $100,000.

Deposits That Sum as Compromise of Government's Claim.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—The sum of $100,000, offered by John Wanamaker as a compromise arising from the non-payment of customs, has been paid into the Sub-Treasury at Philadelphia, officials announced to-day. Only the signing of the compromise agreement remains to close the case.

The payment of $100,000, in addition to a $100,000 compromise payment made during the last days of the Taft administration, will wipe out civil and criminal liability.

The hitch in the proceedings now is due to the refusal of Wanamaker's lawyer, Henry A. Wise, former United States attorney for the Southern District of New York, to accept the wording of the agreement.

Giant Pitcher Tied for Life.

Ford Maurice Schupp, one of John McGraw's young pitchers on the Giants, applied for a marriage license to-day with Miss Minnie Elizabeth Schaefer of No. 537 West One Hundred and Thirty-fifth street. Schupp is twenty-three years old, a native of St. Louis, and is living at present at the Washington Hotel, at One Hundred and Fifty-fifth street. His bride-to-be is twenty-one years old. The couple will be married this afternoon by the Rev. Dr. McCall at Convent avenue and West One Hundred and Thirty-third street.

ALLEGED BRIBER ESCAPES IN COURT FROM DETECTIVES

Makes Getaway From Side of Detective Who Was Making Out Complaint.

Detective McGannon of Lieut. Dan Costigan's strong arm squad finished making out a complaint against Emil Witzel of No. 242 East One Hundred and Forty-fourth street in the complaint room of the West Side Court to-day and turned around to take his prisoner before Magistrate Marsh. Witzel was gone.

McGannon opened the door of the aerial gallery leading to the prison pen. Witzel was not there. There was a locked front door at the other end. The detective ran into the corridor through which prisoners have sometimes escaped by running up to the chambers of the municipal magistrates on the floor above and thence going into the main corridor to the street. Another grating door placed there to prevent just such escapes was also closed and locked. There was just one other way out—through the crowded court room itself.

McGannon heaved a heavy sigh of worry and went out on the streets to look for his man.

The escaped prisoner and William Schofield, a man charged with peddling cocaine and known to the police as "King of the Coke Ring," had been arrested in an Eighth avenue saloon near court charged with attempting to bribe McGannon and Detective Dorsey.

Witzel and Schofield were arrested June 3 by the two detectives. They made out a preliminary case against Schofield, who gave $500 bail for an examination to-day. Witzel was set free, but according to the detective who offered to give them money if Witzel would testify they were mistaken in believing Schofield was carrying cocaine. By advice of Detective Donnelly, who was directing their work for Costigan, an appointment was made for to-day.

In the saloon into which Witzel, accompanied by Schofield, was led by Dorsey and McGannon to-day was Detective Donnelly himself at the bar, and Detective Isabella Goodwin and her assistant, Mrs. Adele Priess, at a table in the back room. One hundred dollars was agreed upon, according to the detectives, as the price of perjury by Dorsey and McGannon. Mr. Goodwin and Mrs. Priess were in hearing of the conversation.

Witzel's counsel, not called in court, Schofield was held for examination to-morrow on the bribery charge and his bail on the cocaine carrying charge was increased to $1,000.

They were social and were never alone at that. Mrs. Priess drank a little—some of course, don't you know, but she never drank more than she could stand.

You have never kissed her good night, have you, Mr. Thorn?" asked Mr. Thorn.

"Why of course not," answered the witness.

Mr. Thorn then explained how he and Mrs. Priess had taken night rides through Central Park, but they had a specific and as he explained, a noble reason for so doing.

"We found out that detectives—dozens of them—were following us," Mr. Thorn said, "and we just took these drives through the park to have some fun with the raft of them. We led them some merry chases, don't you know."

Mr. Thorn corroborated in almost every unimportant detail the reports of the detectives who were following him and Mrs. Priess. He drew from the witness a surprisingly cool, calm and collected narrative of what happened shortly after midnight on Feb. 23, when Poms and detectives broke into the Poms apartment and found Thorn in Mrs. Poms's company.

"The door was forced open," Mr. Thorn began. "Mr. Poms led the men into the room, shouting, 'Come on, boys, we've got them now.' Mr. Poms immediately began to trounce and beat his wife. I went up to him and said: 'Old man, you shouldn't do that.' He replied: 'You gave me a black eye at Healy's and I guess there is something coming to you.' Then he walked me in the jaw and went bang up against the wall, don't you know. I guess there were a million men swarming through the apartment. I saw Poms go up to Mrs. Poms and tear her clothes off and heard him say: 'Look, man, this is how my wife entertains her men friends. Mrs. Poms had a beautiful lemon on, but when he heard he got through with her she looked like she had been through a windstorm.' At this juncture Justice Donnelly cleared the room. Jubilantly Mrs. Thorn said to the reporters as she was leaving court: 'Just wait till they cross-examine my husband!'

SAYS DISMISSAL LAW IS ENTIRELY TOO DRASTIC

Corporation Counsel Declares Charge Is Really a Blanket Indictment.

In speaking of the case of Matt McGrath, the former policeman who was dismissed on charges, Corporation Counsel Polk said to-day the law should be changed.

"The summary dismissal of a policeman charged with conduct unbecoming an officer and with drunkenness is entirely too drastic," said Mr. Polk. "Conduct unbecoming an officer may mean almost anything and is really a blanket indictment."

McGrath was dismissed on the charge of conduct unbecoming an officer and assault, having shot a man he found in his house.

Mayor Gaynor thought McGrath had been dismissed unreasonably and attempted to reinstate him. The Citizens' Union took the case to the courts and the Appellate Division held that the policeman could not be reinstated. Then McGrath appealed to Mayor Mitchell, who believes the dismissal was too severe a punishment.

OVERCOME BY CREEK GAS.

Oil on Untroubled Waters Too Much for Barge Captain's Wife.

As the wife of the captain of the barge W. J. Turk, Mrs. Sarah Pelt has sailed all the turbid waters of this port—Gowanus Canal, the Kill von Kull, the Harlem River, the Morris Canal and Newtown Creek—and she thought she was a seasoned navigator, but she succumbed to Newtown Creek to-day. She didn't fall in. But Newtown Creek almost asphyxiated her.

The barge was moored at the foot of Flushing avenue, Long Island City. Mrs. Pelt was at work in the cabin. Because of a chill breeze she had the windows closed. Into the cabin came the air rising from the oil covered surface of the creek. Mrs. Pelt breathed it until she fell unconscious to the floor. There her husband found her about noon.

Dr. Brooks, ambulance surgeon, arrived from St. John's Hospital. The woman showed all the symptoms of gas poisoning. At the hospital she was revived with the aid of a pulmonary.

"She was almost as badly off," said Dr. Brooks, "as though she had inhaled illuminating gas through a tube."

SECOND POLO GAME JUNE 16.

Capt. Cheape Improving, and Will Probably Enter Practice Play.

Secretary W. A. Hazard of the Polo Association announced this morning that the date for the second game between the English and American teams had been definitely selected as Tuesday, June 16. Although the association has not named a date for a third game, should a deciding contest be necessary, it is understood that Sunday, June 20, will be the date named.

Reports from Westbury are to the effect that Capt. Cheape, whose injuries caused the postponing of the first game scheduled for to-day until next Saturday, is improving steadily and is expected to enter the practice play not later than Thursday.

BODY IN PARK LAKE.

Unidentified Man Found Near 72d Street Entrance.

Theodore Davis, who has charge of the boats on the lake on the east side of Central Park, near Seventy-second street, found the body of a man in the water to-day. Apparently it had been there for several months. There was nothing on it to identify the man.

The body was that of a man about thirty-five years old, of medium height and weight, dark hair and clean-shaven face. There were only a pair of scissors, a razor, a pen, a comb and some other trifles in his pockets. The dark gray worsted suit in which the body was clothed. There was no hat.

LABORER TAKES POISON.

Out of Work, He Swallows Mercury on Church Steps.

John Trautner, a laborer, out of work, swallowed five tablets of bichloride of mercury to-day on the steps of the steps of the Church of Saint Thomas the Apostle, at One Hundred and Eighty-ninth street and St. Nicholas avenue. A woman leaving the church heard him groan and asked him what was the matter.

"Poison," he replied.

Trautner was rushed to the Harlem Hospital and put under immediate treatment. In his pocket was found a box with two tablets of the poison. He said that his home was at No. 2055 Eighth avenue.

ADAMSON TO HEAR FIREMEN'S VIEWS ON TWO-PLATOON SYSTEM

Every Division Will Be Represented in Arguments on Monday.

Fire Commissioner Adamson announced to-day his intention to hear the arguments of the rank and file in the Department regarding the adoption of the two-platoon system. To obtain the views of firemen from the first grade to the fourth he ordered Chief John Kenlon to-day to send word to the men through the regular channels that he will receive a committee, consisting of one fireman from each division, in his office on Monday next at 10:30 A. M.

It was learned this morning that Commissioner Adamson has been quietly sounding the higher officers in the department for more than a month on the advisability of adopting the two-platoon system, which the rank and file of the department have petitioned on several occasions. Just before ex-Fire Commissioner Johnson went out of office he engaged in a lively controversy with the men of his department, in which he managed to defeat the demands of the firemen for the two-platoon system.

Reports received from the chiefs and higher officers of the Department in the last few weeks have invariably been against the adoption of the two-platoon. Chief Kenlon, especially, is strongly opposed to it. Commissioner Adamson will return a decision just as soon as he hears the firemen's side of the argument.

The investigation was started by Adamson on the recommendation of Mayor Mitchell after Alderman Dowling managed to pass a resolution in the Board of Aldermen two months ago urging a thorough investigation. Commissioner Adamson has received reports from practically every city in the country, where the two-platoon system is in use, to help him in forming a decision.
